Welcome! You are finally beginning your journey at McGill University, and we couldn't be happier to meet you.

In order to help orient you to our different libraries (yes, plural!), we have created this handbook filled with everything you need to know and more. For more Library orientation information, check out:

www.mcgill.ca/library/orientation

While we work hard to provide you with the most up-to-date information in this handbook, do take note that the information is subject to change. For the latest updates, check out the Libraries' news and events page:

www.mcgill.ca/library/about/news

Welcome to McGill!

GETTING STARTED

This section offers a set of FAQs, a TL;DR summarizing the must-know information, and an introduction + map of our Libraries.

Land Acknowledgement

It is important to recognize the origins of the land on which the McGill Libraries exist. McGill University is on land which long served as a site of meeting and exchange amongst Indigenous peoples, including the Haudenosaunee and Anishinabeg nations. We acknowledge and thank the diverse Indigenous peoples whose footsteps have marked this territory on which peoples of the world now gather. To learn of Indigenous initiatives on campus, visit:

www.mcgill.ca/indigenous/.

Services

DO I HAVE A LIBRARIAN?

McGill University covers a variety of scholarly topics and each department has a Liaison Librarian specializing in those areas. Your Liaison Librarian is there to assist you with subject-specific research. To find your librarian, visit:

www.mcgill.ca/library/contact/askus/liaison

WHERE CAN I LEARN ABOUT CITATIONS?

Not sure how to properly reference your sources? Visit our Citations Guide for information on reference software available to McGill students, as well as guidelines for common citation styles:

libraryguides.mcgill.ca/citation

WHERE CAN I GET HELP?

We can help you in-person at our Information Desks during service hours. Virtual reference services are also available. Chat online, email, or text your desired location. This will connect you to a librarian who can answer your questions. To learn more, visit:

www.mcgill.ca/library/contact/askus

WHAT IS THE SOFIA DISCOVERY TOOL?

Sofia Discovery is the main catalogue for all books and other media available through the McGill Libraries. To find books and other media you can search Sofia using the title, author, or any combination of keywords and search filters. Extend the results to all of the Quebec university libraries, and see which items are available in real time. Try it out at:

mcgill.on.worldcat.org/v2

CAN I TAKE OUT TEXTBOOKS?

The libraries often have a limited number of textbooks for most courses offered at McGill. However, borrowing protocol for these differ. You can come to the libraries and read the textbooks, but borrowing time is often for 24-hours. This is to ensure that there is equal access to the textbooks. To learn more about borrowing, visit:

www.mcgill.ca/library/services/borrowing

Collections and Access

LIBRARY CARD

As a McGill student, within your first few days on campus you will acquire your McGill ID. This will act as your library card when taking books out in person.

COURSE MATERIALS

Want to quickly search and access different course reading materials? The Libraries offer a Course Reserves service. To find your course materials, visit:

mcgill.on.worldcat.org/courseReserves/landing and enter your course code to find the list of suggested and required readings from your professor.

NON-ACADEMIC

From New York Times Best Sellers to audiobooks, the Libraries cover your extracurricular reading. For some inspiration on your next read, have a look at the McGill University Overdrive page at: <https://mcgill.overdrive.com/>

ACADEMIC

Thanks to the Libraries' extensive subscriptions, your McGill credentials offer you access to many academic publications that are not publicly available without a fee. To find publications in your subject of interest, go to: www.mcgill.ca/library/ From here, you may access a subject guide to narrow your search, or do an advanced keyword search through the Sofia Discovery Tool.

RARE BOOKS AND SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Anyone can consult physical items from the Libraries' Rare and Special Collections. Some collections have been digitized.

We may also be able to help you locate alternative sources of historical primary material. Please feel free to contact the appropriate librarian listed here: www.mcgill.ca/library/branches/arebooks/staff

DATABASES

You can find an A-Z listing of our online databases by visiting: www.libraryguides.mcgill.ca/az.php When off-campus, sign in using your McGill username and password when prompted.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN (ILL)

You can use Interlibrary Loan (ILL), which permits you to borrow books that are not part of McGill Libraries' collection. Requesting a document via ILL is easy to do through our catalogue. When you search for a book that isn't in the collection there is an option to "Request the book via ILL".

PURCHASE SUGGESTIONS

We welcome purchase suggestions to help grow our collections. To suggest a book for the Libraries, contact your Liaison Librarian or visit: www.mcgill.ca/library/contact/askus/suggest

Spaces

WHERE ARE THE LIBRARIES?

At McGill, there isn't just one library; there are 12 libraries in 9 different locations, each providing a specific service. Some are catered to student and public use more than others. To learn about each library keep reading or visit:

www.mcgill.ca/library/branches

CAN I EAT IN THE LIBRARIES?

Water bottles or other sealed drink containers are permitted in library spaces. Food is not permitted in the Libraries. Please visit McGill Food & Dining Services for more information regarding where to eat on campus:

www.mcgill.ca/foodservices/locations

WHERE AND WHEN CAN I STUDY?

All Libraries offer study spaces. To find an up-to-date list of spaces that are available to students and groups, as well as opening hours visit:

www.mcgill.ca/library/services/hours

WHERE CAN I USE THE PRINTERS?

Printing is available to McGill students at most library locations. Students must have their McGill ID with them to use the printers. To find locations, visit:

www.mcgill.ca/library/services/scan-print-copy

WHERE DO I RETURN BOOKS?

In general, books, journals, and A/V material may be returned to any McGill Libraries location.

Additionally, after-hours return bins are available at the McLennan-Redpath Complex, Macdonald Campus Library, and the Schulich Library of Physical Sciences, Life Sciences, and Engineering.

To learn more, visit:

Meet the Libraries

◀ McLennan-Redpath Library Complex

Located at 3459 McTavish Street, this library complex is home to the Humanities and Social Sciences Library, as well as the Rare Books and Special Collections, and the Visual Arts Collection.

Filled with study spaces, access to computers, and printing services, this is one of the most popular locations for students to use for studying.

▶ Schulich Library of Physical Sciences, Life Sciences, and Engineering

Located at 809 Sherbrooke Street West, the Schulich Library is home to Physical and Life Sciences, and Engineering. This library is located within the Macdonald-Stewart Library Building and is newly renovated. The library features many spaces dedicated to individual and group studying. Study spaces are equipped with the latest technology including a 3D Printing Room and computer stations with specialized software.

◀ Nahum Gelber Law Library

The Nahum Gelber Law Library, located at 3660 Peel Street, is a state-of-the-art facility with a collection of statutes, regulations, law reports, treatises, books, journals, and other legal material.

The Law Library provides resources and services to support the teaching and research programs of the Faculty of Law and several Institutes and Research Centres. There are also student study spaces available.

► Education Curriculum Resources Centre

Residing on the first floor of 3700 McTavish Street, the Education Curriculum Resources Centre contains curriculum teaching materials, children's and young adult literature and audiovisual items.

◀ Islamic Studies Library

Located at 3485 McTavish Street, the Islamic Studies Library boasts stunning architecture and contains a collection which strives to cover the whole of Islamic civilization.

This library is a major resource for McGill students as well as researchers of other Quebec and Canadian universities, working in areas such as History, Political Science, and Comparative Religion. There are several study spaces available to students, including the popular and stunning Octagon Room.

► Osler Library of the History of Medicine

The Osler Library, located at 3655 Promenade Sir William Osler, houses the collection of rare medical and other books donated by Sir William Osler; the renowned physician, and a McGill graduate and professor. This library contains works including older, rare materials as well as current books on the history of the health sciences. It is heavily used by researchers from McGill, Quebec, across Canada, and throughout the world.

◀ Birks Reading Room

Located on the second floor of 3520 University Street, the Birks Reading Room supports the teaching program in Religious Studies, and provides a beautiful silent space for students to work. The collection of monographs in the Birks Reading Room is strong in biblical studies, comparative religions, modern theology, Hinduism, and Buddhism. The Reading Room is primarily a student space.

▶ Marvin Duchow Music Library

On the third floor of 527 Sherbrooke Street West, the Marvin Duchow Music Library is one of the most important academic music collections in Canada. The collection consists of music scores, recordings, books, journals, and online resources. At this library, all students have access to various study spaces, and music students also have access to sound equipment!

◀ Macdonald Campus Library

Located on the Macdonald Campus at 2111 Lakeshore Road, this Library's services and collections support teaching, learning, and research by staff and students in the Faculty of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, the School of Dietetics and Human Nutrition, the Bieler School of Environment, the Institute of Parasitology, three major research centres, the Morgan Arboretum, and the Macdonald Farm. It is also home to the McGill Seed Library, offering seed and gardening resources to members of the McGill community.

WELLNESS CHECK

This section offers a library wellness guide, a student's perspective, and relaxing games for self-care.

← Wellness Guide

The McGill Libraries are more than just books; they are a destination for health, wellness, and enjoyment. Students, faculty, and staff have access to countless online resources, recordings, games, and more. Visit <https://www.mcgill.ca/library/about/health-and-wellness> to explore the collections.

→ TALK IT OUT

Separate from the McGill Libraries, there are services and safe spaces available where students can always be heard.

Keep.meSAFE is available to all McGill students, 24/7/365 for any mental health concerns, or if you'd like to just talk to a professional. This service is accessible (60 different languages, anywhere in the world) and safe.

If you would like to talk to non-professionals in empathic and active listening spaces, the Peer Support Centre is open during the day, and McGill's Nightline is available until 3am, for absolutely anything you want to get off your mind.

→ WATCH

The McGill Libraries offers streaming services for all of your viewing needs, from documentaries to blockbusters. Find more information on how to access these services at:

<https://libraryguides.mcgill.ca/audiovisual>

→ READ

If you are looking for informative literature, the Consumer Health Guide helps you find reliable health information online.

To find e-books about mental health or fiction for relaxing, check out OverDrive for a complete collection. The Schulich Library also has a collection of consumer health books called the Wendy Patrick Health Information Collection

→ DE-STRESS

To take some time for yourself and relax, the Library has created a self-isolation care package, including items such as:

- virtual collections tours
- suggested read and watch lists
- recipes from the staff curated list
- virtual puzzles

find these and more here:

<https://libraryguides.mcgill.ca/redpathbookdis/play/carepackage>

Advice from a U3 BA McGill student

It is outrageous and beautiful how different everyone's mental health journeys are, and yet how certain aspects are fundamental to life. Especially, when we're all still growing so much, it is so important to give yourself grace during this time, while reclaiming power over your mood, feelings, and thoughts. Staying proactive about my mental health with books has been the most impactful way for me to keep present, focused, and excited about navigating life as a student. Having a system around you that works for you doesn't have to be vigorous. It could just look like listening to your favourite playlist on the way to school - it could also be starting to look for therapists in your area. The McGill Libraries have many resources to help make finding those tools for self-care that much easier. To the left are some of my favourites that I've read so far. Being a student is HARD. There will always be obstacles thrown at you, but awareness gives you the power to take care of yourself despite what's happening around you. Wellness looks so different to everyone, and it's so important to find what self-care looks like for you.

I still have a lot to learn but here is some advice I have gathered since I first entered the Roddick Gates three years ago:

Be mindful, find your community, check-in on yourself, get the support you need, dance around your room when you're feeling low, read when you're inspired, take walks, listen to your body, be silly, and take your time.

Wishing you the best, and know that you are always supported.

ALL ABOUT ACCESSIBILITY

ACCESS >

IN THE LIBRARIES

The McGill Libraries are constantly striving to remove any remaining barriers to the McGill community. We are committed to ensuring our services are available and accessible to all users. We offer adaptive equipment, such as adjustable workspaces equipped with scanners; screen readers; and large-print software including JAWS, ZoomText and Open Book. To learn more about the software available, visit:

WELCOME

MESSAGE

FROM DEAN GUYLAINE BEAUDRY

This section includes a bilingual welcome message from Trenholme Dean of Libraries, Guylaine Beaudry

Welcome from the Trenholme Dean of Libraries!

As Dean of Libraries, it is my great pleasure to welcome you as we embark on a new and exciting academic year. Whether you're a returning student, a faculty member, or are new to the McGill community, I invite you to take advantage of everything that the Libraries have to offer, which is a lot!

Our wonderful team of over 165 dedicated librarians and staff members is here to assist you, whether you need help navigating complex databases, or creating a bibliography for the first time, please ask us! We're here to support you every step of the way. And be sure to participate in workshops, events, and exhibits at our libraries as they provide the opportunity to up your academic game and overall success.

The McGill Libraries offer a variety of study spaces, from quiet reading areas to collaborative group spaces equipped with the latest technology. These spaces, like the recently-renovated Schulich Library of Physical Sciences, Life Sciences, and Engineering, are designed to accommodate different learning styles and collaborative needs.

Our extensive collection of books, e-books, journals, databases, rare books, and other resources on multiple platforms caters to a wide range of academic disciplines. Remember, if we don't have a specific resource you need, our network loan and interlibrary loan services can help you obtain it from other libraries.

This academic year will be an eventful one for the Libraries, with several transformational infrastructure projects on the go. In June 2024, we launched our new retrieval and delivery service at the McGill University Collections Centre \(MUCC\) a groundbreaking, LEED certified facility nestled in Valleyfield, Quebec. MUCC staff members manage over 2 million borrowed and returned materials using state-of-the-art robotics, and an innovative, grid-like, aluminum retrieval system.

Getting you the books you need to succeed is integral to McGill Libraries' mission and the MUCC plays a key role in enhancing the community's access to information. Discover everything you need to know about the new retrieval and delivery service on our website or watch a video about the facility and service.

The movement of books has been essential to make way for another renovation initiative. You're sure to hear about the Fiat Lux Project in the coming months.

Workshops at the Libraries

My suggestion to new McGill students is to take advantage of all the information available to you and of the network of people around you. University life can be difficult at times but don't give up, get organized, sleep well, and take the opportunity to discover, explore, read, and work on your studies. You're in the process of learning what you need to go into the world and change it. The McGill Libraries are honoured to be part of your journey.

I invite you to share your thoughts with me. Is there a specific aspect of the library experience that you believe deserves special attention? Your feedback matters and will guide us in creating an exceptional environment that supports your academic journey. Please feel free to reach out to me via email at guylaine.beaudry@mcgill.ca.
